BIO

Rebecca Radcliffe is an insightful consultant, speaker, and meeting facilitator.

She has been invited to keynote hundreds of meetings for organizations, professional associations, and universities across the country with her entertaining, insightful, and leading-edge thinking, and futuristic perspective.

As head of her own small business, she has worked with health care systems, corporations, universities, and local government on projects ranging from strategic planning to communication strategies, training programs, annual meetings, focus groups, marketing, and public relations over the last 20 years.

Ms Radcliffe holds a M.B.A. in entrepreneurial strategy and a Mini-M.B.A. in Electronic Commerce from the University of St. Thomas.

She also has two Bachelor degrees in communications, futurism, and educational process from the University of Minnesota.

In these challenging times, she remains an optimist who foresees that the creativity in our workforce will positively shape the future in exciting ways that will benefit us all.
